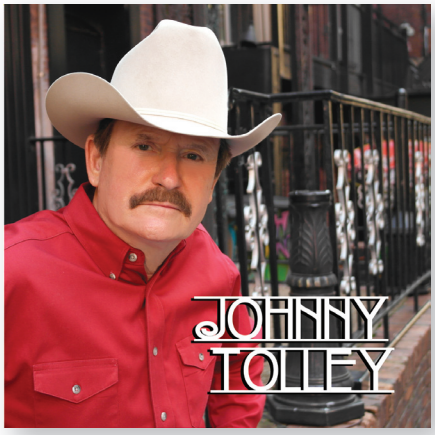
ORDER COPIES OF JOHNNY TOLLEY'S CDs NOW!



"Working with two legends taught me how to entertain," says traditional country singer, Johnny Tolley. One was Country Music Hall Fame member Marty Robbins; the other was comedian Jerry Clower. "I traveled with these entertainers for many years, applying my trade," remarks this Tennessee born and Arkansas-raised entertainer.

Johnny sings traditional country music with modern arrangements supporting a voice influenced by folk music (James Taylor) and a balladeer (Marty Robbins), but a voice completely molded into his own style. This style is evident on Johnny's latest album release on JT Productions.

While working as single act at the world famous Loveless Cafe in Nashville, a gentleman asked Johnny to join him at his table. He declared, "I love your style. Your delivery is very unique, and I enjoyed listening to you." These compliments were given by actor Gene Hackman.

Whether working with his band or solo, Johnny is always comfortable on stage, and his audience is comfortable with him. When you witness Johnny's performances, you will notice he learned his trade well. Working with the legends has paid many benefits for his audiences. You will be entertained.
